India's most loved gadgets brand Portronics, has joined hands with TWID, India's leading rewards-based payment network, to redefine the shopping experience for its customers. This collaboration aims to make shopping more rewarding and inclusive for Portronics' vast customer base, enabling them to use their accumulated loyalty points across multiple programs to purchase next-gen products.

With TWID's "Pay with Rewards" technology, at checkout on the Portronics website, customers will have the option to use these reward points to pay, either partially or fully, for their purchases. This hassle-free integration eliminates the need for additional steps, making it easier than ever to redeem points for products like smartwatches, portable speakers, wireless chargers, and more.

Commenting on the partnership, Jasmeet Singh, CEO & Founder at Portronics said, "Our vision has always been to simplify and enhance our customers' lives through technology. We understand the aspirations of today's digital-savvy consumers who seek value and convenience in every interaction. Our collaboration with TWID ensures that our customers can now shop more and better, using their loyalty points as a convenient payment method, while enjoying the same trust, quality, and innovation that Portronics is known for."

Commenting on the partnership, Rishi Batra, COO & Co-founder at Twid, said, "We are excited to collaborate with Portronics, a brand that shares our vision of customer empowerment and innovation. With our 'Pay with Rewards' technology, we're ensuring higher conversions and ROI for Portronics and enabling customers to seamlessly redeem their points to make every transaction more rewarding. This partnership is a testament to the potential of integrating fintech solutions into everyday experiences."

This collaboration is set to transform the shopping experience for Portronics customers, allowing them to combine the best of innovation and affordability. As a brand catering to young, tech-savvy Indians, Portronics continues to pioneer solutions that empower its customers to embrace a lifestyle of convenience and innovation.

The new feature is live on the Portronics website.

About Twid
